

Oct 3, 2023

Contact Kylie Mason

Phone (850) 245-0150

OFFICE OF THE
ATTORNEY GENERAL
STATE OF FLORIDA

Florida Attorney General's Office News Release

VIDEO: Attorney General Moody Launches 2023 Human Trafficking Summit and Announces Award Winners

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Attorney General Ashley Moody today launched the 2023 Human Trafficking Summit. This event brings together thousands of people who share a common goal—eradicating human trafficking. John Walsh, former host of “America’s Most Wanted” and creator of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, is keynoting the virtual event. More than 3,000 people signed up to hear from Attorney General Moody, Walsh and more. Attendees will have access to 11 hours of educational content from leaders in the fight to end human trafficking.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, “Our annual summit brings together allies in the fight to end human trafficking. Thousands join from across the country to hear from experts in this field and to learn how to push back against this atrocious crime in their communities. This year, we are teaming up with John Walsh to launch the virtual summit, and I am excited for all our attendees to hear Walsh’s inspirational message about what we can do to fight back against criminals preying on vulnerable populations.”

Hillsborough County Sheriff Chad Chronister said, “Criminal networks engaged in human trafficking may think they operate in the shadows, but Attorney General Moody's relentless efforts shine a light on their dark deeds. We stand with her, resolute in our commitment to end this scourge, rescue the vulnerable, and bring these criminals to justice.”

2023 Human Trafficking Summit Keynote Speaker John Walsh said, “Rallying the public to help law enforcement rescue victims and reunite families is a mission close to my heart. I know it is important to Attorney General Moody too and that is why I am honored to help her kick off the 2023 Human Trafficking Summit. Working together we can solve crimes, rescue victims and make Florida a zero-tolerance state for trafficking.”

As a nationally renowned crime fighter, victim advocate and host of the former hit television show “America’s Most Wanted,” Walsh spent decades seeking missing children and justice for crime victims. Walsh’s extensive career in television helped law enforcement recover missing children.

John and his wife, Revé Walsh, helped found the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in 1984. NCMEC runs a toll-free hotline and, since being founded, has fielded more than 5 million calls nationwide. The nonprofit organization is also responsible for circulating billions of photos of missing children and assisting law enforcement in the recovery of more than 400,000 missing children.

As part of the summit, Attorney General Moody, the Florida Department of Children and Families and the Florida Department of Juvenile Justice honored advocates and officials for working to fight and end human trafficking.

Below are the list of awards and winners this year:

- Survivor Advocate of the Year—Kim Figueroa
- Community Advocate of the Year—Mitzi Henley
- Prosecutor of the Year—Rita Peters
- Law Enforcement Official of the Year—Detective Bernadette Maher
- DCF Human Trafficking Investigator of the Year—Laizbet Arado
- DJJ Human Trafficking Advocate of the Year—Aislinn Roxanne “Roxie” Brookshire

The Florida Attorney General’s Office hosted this year’s summit, along with the Statewide Council on Human Trafficking, DCF, DJJ, the Florida Department of Health, the Florida Alliance to End Human Trafficking and Florida State University.

You can attend the 2023 Human Trafficking Summit by visiting HumanTraffickingSummit.com. Content will remain accessible through March 2024.

#