Florida Attorney General's Office News Release

VIDEO: Attorney General Moody and Florida State University Fight to End Human Trafficking

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—During National Human Trafficking Prevention Month, Attorney General Ashley Moody announced that Florida State University will be joining the 100 Percent Club. Attorney General Moody's 100 Percent Club recognizes businesses and organizations that commit to training employees on how to spot and report human trafficking. Now, students, faculty and staff at FSU can access the statewide training module through FSU's online academic platform.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, "We are excited to have FSU on our team to end human trafficking in Florida. By training these future leaders, we spread awareness across our state and increase the number of people trained to spot and report human trafficking."

There are more than 44,000 students and 15,000 employees at FSU. By completing the training, students will earn a badge on an electronic resume as well as a digital certificate of completion.

Today at 4:00 p.m., FSU will kick off membership in the 100 Percent Club by hosting an event for students, faculty and staff with information about developments in the fight to end trafficking and a training session. The free, anti-human trafficking training is available on Canvas, an academic online platform. The university sent the following email to students, faculty and staff regarding the event and training opportunity:

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

This message to all students, faculty and staff has been approved by

TRAINING

Florida Alliance to End Human Trafficking Training

In collaboration with the Florida Forensic Institute for Research, Security, and Tactics, the Florida Alliance to End Human Trafficking developed a one-hour training course that focuses on detecting human trafficking, best practices for reporting human trafficking, and the interventions and treatment for survivors of human trafficking.

All participants completing the Florida Alliance to End Human Trafficking Training will receive a completion badge.

Attorney General Moody launched the 100 Percent Club in 2022 to recognize companies taking proactive steps to train employees on the signs of human trafficking. Through the 100 Percent Club, nearly 10,000 individuals are now trained to spot and report trafficking. To join the 100 Percent Club, companies must commit to providing this training to employees and issuing a quick-reference guide about how to report human trafficking.
