Florida Attorney General's Office News Release

2020 Military Consumer Protection Resource Guide

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Attorney General Ashley Moody today recognized the beginning of National Military Consumer Protection Month with the release of her 2020 Military Consumer Protection Resource Guide. The guide offers information about common scams targeting military members, veterans and their families.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, “Florida’s military members risk their lives to protect our safety and freedom. It is my hope that our Military Consumer Protection Resource Guide will help protect them and our great veterans against scammers trying to exploit their bravery and sacrifice. In addition to our resource guide, my office has a designated team of attorneys and investigators dedicated to quickly reviewing complaints submitted by service members and veterans to ensure our military members are protected from unscrupulous business practices and fraudsters.”

Attorney General Moody invites all service members and veterans to review these general tips to help avoid military-related scams:

- Beware of scammers using misleading photos or language to imply false association with a branch of the military;
- Verify the authenticity of an email or text that appears to be from a military branch. Phishing schemes use manipulated messages that falsely appear to be from a military branch or the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs in an effort to target service members, veterans or family members;

- Ensure any military charity soliciting funds is registered with the state's Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services at FDACS.gov/ConsumerServices; and
- Place an active duty alert on credit reports at no cost. An active duty alert requires businesses to take additional steps before granting credit in the name of active duty personnel serving overseas.
