Attorney General Moody's Week In Review - Feb. 21, 2020

The 2020 Census is underway, and this week, we issued a Consumer Alert to warn Floridians that scammers may try to exploit this mandatory count to steal personal information.

The U.S. Census serves a critical role in the function of our representative government, and participation is mandatory. But don't let this compulsory count lessen your resolve to protect personal information or your safety.

To avoid Census scams—remember that the Census Bureau does not send unsolicited emails requesting personal information. The Bureau will never ask for your Social Security number, bank account information or credit card accounts. They also will never request any monetary payments, donations or gift cards.

If a canvasser shows up at your door, check their photo ID badge and make sure it has a U.S. Department of Commerce watermark plus expiration date. If you are still suspicious, call the Bureau at 1(800) 923-8282 to confirm the visit and the canvasser's badge number.

The Bureau will begin sending out participation invitations in mid-March, and the best way to avoid a census scam is to respond quickly—that way you are less susceptible to scammers claiming you are delinquent.

If you do encounter a scam, please report it to the Census Bureau, and remember, by remaining vigilant and taking steps to guard against scams, you can help us build a Stronger, Safer Florida.

Clay County Caregiver Arrested for Grand Theft

Attorney General Ashley Moody's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit and the Clay County Sheriff's Office arrested a caregiver for grand theft. Valerie Louise Todd allegedly submitted fraudulent service logs to her employer for services not rendered involving a disabled adult client. While employed at Superior Senior & Disabled Care, LLC d/b/a Comfort Keepers, Todd received payments by the company and the Medicaid program for services not provided. Superior Senior & Disabled Care provides home care services for elderly and disabled adults.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, "This behavior is unacceptable, and my Medicaid Fraud Control Unit will not tolerate deceitful actions that hurt the integrity of the Medicaid program and cause mistrust of home care providers that take care of some of our most vulnerable Floridians." CONSUMER ALERT: New Voice-Cloning Technology Could Lead to New Phone Scams

Attorney General Ashley Moody issued a Consumer Alert to make Floridians aware of an innovative phone scam using new technology. Voice cloning technology enables users to make near-perfect reproductions of real people’s voices. There are several promising uses for this technology. However, according to the Federal Trade Commission, the technology can also be used by scammers to extort money, and the Wall Street Journal reported the technology was used last year to steal more than $200,000 from a U.K.-based energy firm.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, “Imagine receiving a call. The voice on the other end of the phone is familiar and is begging for help. Sadly, today, you may not always be able to trust what you hear. We all want to be there for those we love and care about, but with the emergence of new voice cloning technology, Floridians must be more vigilant than ever in watching for imposters and fraud before sharing financial or personal information. This is one of the scariest scams I have heard about since becoming Attorney General and I want to make sure consumers are aware of the ways technology can be used to exploit their good intentions.” Read More
