Attorney General Moody's Week In Review - Sept. 25, 2020

This week, I presented a resolution recognizing September as Florida Law Enforcement Service and Sacrifice Month to the Governor and Florida Cabinet. Our resolution dedicates this month to remembering and honoring fallen officers and recognizing and supporting the service and sacrifice of those who serve to protect.

As the wife of a law enforcement officer, I see clearly the daunting challenges currently surrounding those who wear the badge. Florida law enforcement officers are among the bravest and most selfless men and women I have ever known.

Now, more than ever, they deserve our support and recognition. Even as their health and safety became increasingly at risk, these officers, without hesitation, rushed to answer the call of duty—putting on their badge, uniform and a mask to serve others.

I'm proud to sponsor this resolution and join the Florida Police Chiefs Association and Florida Sheriffs Association in recognizing September as a time to honor our fallen heroes. As we honor and remember these fallen officers, let us not forget the immense sacrifices they made—laying down their lives for the citizens they swore an oath to protect. Most importantly, let's remember to always thank law enforcement officers for their selfless service.

By supporting the brave men and women who swore an oath to uphold the law and protect our communities, we will build a Stronger, Safer Florida.
