Scammers may try to take advantage of consumers when looking to purchase a puppy—I’m issuing tips and a new infographic designed to help future pet owners avoid falling for scams.”

Attorney General Moody lists important tips to help consumers avoid puppy scams:

- Meet the puppy before purchase to make sure it is in good living condition and does not have any obvious preexisting health issues;
- Be wary of online sales that seem too-good-to-be-true—they probably are;
- Reverse image search pictures of the animal to see if they are just stock photos;
- Know that a legitimate seller will never require payment by gift card, wire transfer service or cryptocurrency—use a credit card when possible for the added protections;
- Make sure that a pet store can provide proper paperwork, specify breeders and clearly list the transportation history of the puppy; and
- Carefully read the language of a contract.

TIPS TO PROTECT FROM PET SCAMS

MEET BEFORE THE RECEIPT
Arrange a Visit
Never put a deposit down on an unseen puppy. Don't trust a buyer who refuses to allow visitation to the puppy before purchase.

BE WARY WHEN BUYING ONLINE
Flashy Words are Misleading
Online sellers may use deceptive buzzwords like designer or hypoallergenic. Double check these claims before buying. Also, reverse image search photos of an animal to see if stock photos are being used.

WHEN BUYING FROM A PET STORE
Watch Out for the Following:

- Stores without proper paperwork;
- Stores that don't specify breeders;
- Puppies transported from far away;
- Puppies that are much cheaper than the others; and
- Puppies less than 8 weeks old.

CAREFULLY READ THE PURCHASE AGREEMENT
Look for Tricky Language
Contract language can limit a buyer's power after purchase. This could potentially prevent recovery funds, via court, for any unexpected expenses. Also, know that legitimate sellers will not require payment via gift card, wire transfer or cryptocurrency.
